

Oregon Pacific Bank Hires Vice President/Commercial Relationship Manager

Roseburg native Tim Corzine recently joined Oregon Pacific Bank's Roseburg Commercial Lending Team as Vice President/Commercial Relationship Manager. He brings with him over 15 years of commercial lending experience.

A graduate of the University of Kansas, Tim went on to attend and graduate from Pacific Coast Banking School.

Over the course of his career, Tim has worked for Umpqua Bank in Roseburg as Vice President/Retail Service Manager, Business Relationship Manager and Commercial Relationship Manager. Most recently, he was Vice President/Commercial Loan Officer at Selco Credit Union in Bend.

Tim has a diverse and impressive commercial lending background. As well as handling the lending needs for large commercial accounts such as manufacturing, construction and logging companies, he has helped support the lending requirements of Wine/Vineyard harvest operations. He is also well versed in all of the current financial systems and regulatory requirements involving commercial lending.

"We are very excited to have Tim on board as a member of our seasoned commercial relationship management team," notes Ron Green, Oregon Pacific Bank Chief Credit Officer. "Tim's passion for delivering a high level of client service, along with his commitment to the success of small businesses, will truly be an asset for Oregon Pacific Bank."

In his past, Tim was an Academic All –American in high school swimming and a conference champion swimmer during his days at the University of Kansas.
